PROFILE

Aliança BARRADA Reserva is made with the classic varieties regional Bical and Maria-Gomes, which are the most known grapes in the BARRADA region. The 2022 agricultural year took place somewhat unbalanced with long periods of heavy rainfall having been feared by some water stress of the plants. The end of the summer took place with mild temperatures but with absence freezing, which safeguarded the aromas and flavors of the white grapes. The characteristics of the year led to aromatic wines and with a lot of freshness and oxidation.

During winemaking, there is a pellicular maceration for 12 hours, followed by alcoholic fermentation at 16°C, taking advantage of only the most purest tear.

TASTING NOTES

Pale yellow colour with greenish reflections. The aroma is fruity with hints of tropical fruit and citric notes. The palate is fresh, intense and complex.
